Miss Ingalls,
Bloomingtondale,
Illinois.

This interesting old farm house, so typical of the Chicago region with its characteristic and inviting side pillared entrance porch, for work-a-day, and formal doorway, used so seldom, was built for a family named Laudon about 1850.

It is of frame construction on crude ashlar stone foundation in two parts, the rear portion at a later date. No information was obtainable regarding the designer or builder.

It is owned at present by Mike Bender, farmer.
